

MASTER Risk Blueprint

Personal Strategy Report

Elizabeth Grant

July 2026

Top Management & Executive

Your MASTER Snapshot

Risk Zone

Stretch Zone

Risk Profile

The Ready

Focus Pillar

Situation

Your Aim Right Now

- to build your strategic skills, resilience, and business acumen.
-  This report helps you build practical skills that translate into real-world entrepreneurial contexts.

What This Means Now

You are doing things that go beyond routine, and parts of what you handle require adjustment rather than repetition. Some areas are working well, while others are not yet fully keeping up, which creates moments where extra effort is required. This is where growth happens, as you are already operating beyond what used to feel comfortable. What you handle is at the edge of your capacity, and how you respond to this determines how quickly your level rises.

These results reflect your current self-perception of your Mindset, Abilities and Situation.

Your Top 3 Priorities

1 Situation → Stakeholders → Partnerships

Build partnerships and align collaboration to support strategic goals

2 Situation → Strategy → Growth Plan

Define how the organization grows and set direction to scale outcomes and impact

3 Situation → Strategy → Positioning

Define how the organization stands out and position it clearly in the market

The Three Pillars: Why Risk Feels This Way

The model captures three pillars that shape how you handle risk.

Mindset: How you interpret uncertainty and pressure.

Abilities: What you can reliably execute with your current skills.

Situation: Conditions you can influence that affect progress.

Your Risk Zone

Your Risk Zone shows how challenge relates to your current capacity.

Comfort: Your pillars strongly support the work you are doing.

Stretch: One or two pillars are under pressure, creating growth.

Panic: Your pillars provide little support for the challenge.

Your responses combine into three pillar values, which determine your Risk Zone and Risk Profile.

Your Risk Profile shows how you tend to respond inside your zone.

How Priorities Are Determined

Your priorities are selected for impact in your specific context.

- Weighted relevance: What should receive attention first?

Inputs are weighted by relevance to your role and context, so focus reflects where change will matter most, not absolute scores.

- Risk Zone strategy: What type of move fits your current Risk Zone?

Decision rules adapt to your current Risk Zone, so priorities align with what is effective now.

How to Use This Blueprint

The Blueprint identifies what matters most for impact right now.

Start with Priority 1. Use the Learning Hub to put it into practice.

Your Risk Pillars

Your current scores for the three pillars that shape risk.

Mindset

Reflects how you interpret uncertainty and pressure as they unfold, shaping your response before acting.

Abilities

Reflect the skills you draw on when taking action, shaping how demanding a step feels once you move.

Situation

Reflects aspects of your context that support or constrain action, focusing on what you can influence.

Your Pillar Breakdown

Each pillar is built from four building blocks that shape its function. This chart shows how those elements currently score for you.

These building blocks break down into Minimum Actionable Variables, where action starts.

Your Risk Zone: Stretch Zone

Risk Zones describe how challenge relates to your current capacity.

In the Stretch Zone, you are operating beyond what used to be familiar. Your role, responsibilities, or expectations have expanded, and much of what you are doing still requires attention rather than routine.

This is where capability expands when you stay with the challenge.

Your Risk Profile on the next page shows how you typically respond within here.

Stretch Zone

What This Zone Is

Some parts of your activity go beyond what you are comfortable handling. Mindset, Abilities, and Situation are not yet aligned as demands rise.

What This Zone Enables

You build capability by handling real tasks rather than preparing. Skills develop as you adjust, practice, and respond to new demands.

What This Zone Limits

Trying to handle everything at once instead of focusing where it matters most. Results weaken when effort is spread instead of directed.

Your Risk Profile: The Ready

This profile describes a pattern in how you respond when responsibility increases. It reflects how your Mindset · Abilities · Situation line up when pressure rises.

The Ready is a Stretch Zone profile where Mindset and Abilities are strong, while Situation is under pressure.

Capacity limited by external conditions

Internal readiness is strong, but conditions around the work slow progress.

How Your Pillars Shape Your Risk Profile

Mindset · Strong

Committed and engaged. Direction feels clear.

Abilities · Strong

Reliable and applicable. Skills fit the next step.

Situation · Limited

Direction, support, processes, or resources may constrain progress.

Common Signals with This Profile

- Progress slowed by conditions around the work
- Repeated friction after you have done your part
- Effort spent navigating the setup as well as doing the work

Your Risk Strategy

Your priorities follow a clear logic:

Risk Zone sets the strategy

Comfort → leverage strengths
Stretch → reinforce the weakest pillar
Panic → stabilize first, then rebuild

Risk Profile determines the focus

Mindset, Abilities, Situation or Across all pillars

What This Means for You

Your results place you in the Stretch Zone.

Your Risk Profile, The Ready, focuses on Situation.

Stretch Strategy: Reinforce the Weakest Pillar

Growth in the Stretch Zone comes from strengthening the area under the most pressure. Your weakest pillar is Situation, making it the most important area to reinforce. Focus on the variables within it that can support you as demands increase.

Your Top 3 Priorities

1 Situation → Stakeholders → Partnerships

When partnerships are well managed, you extend capabilities, improve outcomes, and create stronger external support for your goals.

2 Situation → Strategy → Growth Plan

When growth is planned, you align resources, guide execution, and ensure effort supports expansion in a controlled way.

3 Situation → Strategy → Positioning

When positioning is clear, you define direction, align your team, and ensure your work stands out in the right way.

Your Priority 1

This page explains what this priority means for you, and how to work with it.

Partnerships (Situation)

Partnerships reflect how effectively the offering, business, or portfolio of products and services works with external parties to support its goals. It captures how clearly roles are defined, how value is exchanged, and how consistently collaboration contributes to results as conditions evolve.

Why It Matters (Stretch Zone)

You are working with external partners, yet alignment and contribution are still developing. Some collaborations deliver value, while others remain unclear or inconsistent. That introduces friction in execution and makes outcomes harder to predict when coordination matters more. Strengthening this area helps you define roles more precisely, improve coordination, and ensure partnerships contribute reliably as demands increase.

What Might Be Holding You Back

You may rely on informal agreements or assume alignment without making expectations explicit. Some partnerships show potential, yet lack the structure to deliver consistent results over time.

Self-Reflection

Are my partnerships clearly structured to deliver value, or are they still loosely defined and inconsistent?

What This Looks Like in Practice

You clarify roles, expectations, and value exchange with partners. As agreements become clearer, coordination improves and fewer gaps appear in execution. Over time, stronger collaborations stand out, allowing you to focus on those that consistently contribute to results.

Work on This Priority in the Learning Hub

 Details on how to use the Learning Hub are explained later in the Appendix.

Your Priority 2

This page explains what this priority means for you, and how to work with it.

Growth Plan (Situation)

A growth plan reflects how clearly the offering, business, or portfolio of products and services expands over time. It translates ambition into concrete choices about where to grow, how to compete, and which opportunities to prioritize as conditions evolve.

Why It Matters (Stretch Zone)

You are shaping future direction while still executing in the present, and the growth path is forming but not yet defined. Some opportunities look promising, while others remain broad or untested. That makes prioritization harder and slows decisions when direction needs to become clearer. Strengthening your growth plan helps you focus on the few directions that can expand, reduce scattered effort, and make more consistent choices as expectations increase.

What Might Be Holding You Back

You may keep multiple growth options open without committing, or delay narrowing choices. Early signals are present, yet they are not translated into focused priorities or clear trade-offs that guide what to pursue.

Self-Reflection

Am I focusing on the few growth paths that can expand, or keeping options open without making clear choices?

What This Looks Like in Practice

You compare growth options using real signals, then commit to those that show potential. As signals repeat, weaker paths fall away and your focus narrows around what can scale. Direction becomes easier to follow because your choices are anchored in what consistently shows results.

Work on This Priority in the Learning Hub

 Details on how to use the Learning Hub are explained later in the Appendix.

Your Priority 3

This page explains what this priority means for you, and how to work with it.

Positioning (Situation)

Positioning reflects how clearly the offering, business, or portfolio of products and services is defined in the market and how it stands out to the right audience. It shapes how customers and stakeholders understand its value, what it is known for, and why it is chosen over alternatives.

Why It Matters (Stretch Zone)

You are gaining visibility, yet your positioning is not consistently sharp. Some messages connect, while others create hesitation or attract the wrong audience. That weakens the link between attention and real demand, making it harder to convert interest into action. Strengthening positioning helps you express your value more precisely, attract the right people, and reduce friction in decisions as expectations increase.

What Might Be Holding You Back

You may try to appeal to multiple audiences at once or adjust messaging too often without testing impact. Signals are present, yet they are not translated into a clear and stable position that guides your communication.

Self-Reflection

Does my positioning make it immediately clear to the right people why this matters and who it is for?

What This Looks Like in Practice

You test different messages with real people and refine based on response. As patterns emerge, weaker messages drop away and your language becomes sharper and more focused. Communication starts to align with what consistently resonates, making it easier for the right people to recognize the value.

Work on This Priority in the Learning Hub

 Details on how to use the Learning Hub are explained later in the Appendix.

Your 30-Day Action Frame

Over the next 30 days, treat this as a focused working window.

This Blueprint has already identified what matters most right now. The purpose of the next month is not to improve everything, but to work within a limited scope.

This period is meant for working on your priorities without expecting full results yet. What matters is staying with a small number of priorities long enough for them to start shaping how you approach your work.

What to Work With

This Blueprint has identified three priority variables, ordered by impact.

Work with them sequentially, not simultaneously, allowing each to improve before moving to the next.

What to Expect Over These 30 Days

You may start to notice early improvements as new actions become easier to apply. Common signals include:

- familiar situations feeling easier to handle
- decisions requiring less deliberation
- recurring challenges becoming more manageable

These are indications that the focus is starting to take effect. When you notice them, stay with the same priority rather than switching too quickly.

When you are ready for structure, guidance, or practice, continue working through the Learning Hub.

Appendix A

Diagnostic Reference

This page shows your variable scores from the assessment.

Scores use a 1-10 scale. Higher scores indicate stronger support in that area.

Scores are rounded for display. Risk Zones and priorities are determined using full-precision scores, weighted relevance and MASTER assessment rules.

Detailed scores and components

Appendix B

How to Use the Learning Hub

Use the Learning Hub to work on your current priority.

Real improvement comes from regularly applying what you learn in your work.

The Learning Hub offers practical ways to understand a priority, test ideas, and apply them in real situations.

The Learning Hub

Guided Learning

AI Coaching

Learn by Doing

Guided Learning

Use this when you want a better understanding of a priority before acting on it. Short, focused resources help you see what the priority involves and where to apply it in your work effectively.

AI Coaching

Use this to explore simulated scenarios and guided questions related to your priority. The coaching helps you test responses and practice decision-making before applying it in your own context.

Learn by Doing

Use this to take small, concrete actions in your daily work. Short experiments and reflections help you apply new approaches, observe what happens, and adjust based on experience.

Start with your current priority. Use one section at a time, based on what you need next. Leave the rest for later.

Go to the Learning Hub